Royal Exploration Corps ATTENDS! Adventureland Day!

“Walt” Would’ve Approved!

WHAT WOULD WALT THINK OF ADVENTURELAND DAY?

Most scholars and historians agree – he would have heartily approved! Disney was no stranger to Adventure. From his days as a WWI Red Cross Ambulance driver, to Alpine explorations of the Sierra and Cascade Mountain Ranges to his Travels throughout Europe and South America, Walt personified... (see “Walt’s Travels”, page 5)

LOST DELTA REGION

ELIXIR ITS OWN SIGN OF DANGER

When JNC’s Skipper Bob (Jungle Brew Master) heard an ape could have consumed the fabled “Elixir of Vigor” he advised extreme caution.

“I tried to recreate that brew once. After taking a sip, I woke up 2 days later with a charred beard, a half-eaten banana stuck in my ear, and no memory... (See “Appealing Sounds” page 10)

GHASTLY GORILLA MENACE J.N.C.’S WESTERN OPERATIONS ON HOLD

THE JUNGLE NAVIGATION COMPANY’S WESTERN TERMINUS has temporarily suspended its daily operation due to a menacing, “King Sized” Gorilla wreaking havoc around the Jungle rivers. Normally docile and friendly creatures, this great ape appears to have gone mad with rage and is displaying hostility rarely associated with the species.

The inflicted damage and destruction includes, but is not limited to, sunken water craft, overturned land vehicles, and stolen elephant bathing trunks. Even rhinoceros, formidably aggressive in their own right, are being chased from their habitat as this precocious primate drives his own point home.

GORILLA GOES BANANAS!

It is thought that behind the Gorilla’s brutal behavior may be an ancient and mysterious liquid known as the “Elixir of Vigor”. The Royal Exploration Corps is reporting they had an expeditionary team in the field who were researching the origins and composition of this, once thought mythical, libation. It is speculated the team may have brewed a draft which was then stolen and imbibed by the Gorilla. If true, the resulting effects would be consistent with the actions of the horrendous hominin.

Regardless of root cause, Alberta Falls – JNC’s proprietor and president – feels it’s necessary to temporarily halt Jungle Cruise excursions until the area can be made safe again... (See “Beast Goes Bananas” page 2)

THE ELIXIR OF VIGOR. BOTTOMS UP! From the Regions of the Lost Delta, a tale is told of a legendary potion known as “The Elixir of Vigor”. According to local legend, if successfully brewed, the resulting beverage would bestow exceeding amounts of Vitality and Exuberance upon any and all who imbibe it (not to mention, make for a lively happy hour). For years, Archeologists, Historians, and Folklorists have debated the existence of this storied concoction; however, Miss Veronica Constantine, R.E.C. head mixologist, recently announced she had discovered an ancient and cryptic manuscript which may contain a recipe for this potent libation. Furthermore, she believes it possible to recreate.... (See “I’ll drink to that” page 7)

R.E.C. LUNGES TO FENCING VICTORY

S.E.A. feels Feint

THE ROYAL EXPLORATION CORPS HOUSE FENCING TEAM stuck it to the Society of Explorers and Adventurers’ Team at the annual fencing finals. The Corps dominated in 8 out of 9 periods and thrust The Society in to the hands of defeat. Heading in to the contest, fans doubted S.E.A.’s moxie since over the past few years, the sporting competitions between the two clubs has seen the lion’s share of victories go to the Corps as they have come out on top in Rowing, Bobsledding, Cricket, and now fencing. After the contest, when asked to comment on their long-standing rivalry with their Adventuring peers, R.E.C. Team Captain Madam Movenia quipped, “Not to put too fine a point on it, but the SEA was simply foiled again”... (See “Sliced and Diced” page 14)

JUNGLE BOATS OAR AN ALTERNATIVE?

Canoes to take the lead

With The Jungle Navigation Company on temporary hiatus, many Explorers at this Adventureland Day will certainly find themselves forlorn as they long for a boating excursion. Who could blame them for their dejection? Those 3 magical words, “Hit it, Skip” are the auditory equivalent to watching a fireworks display. And, to be denied the phrase results in withdrawal symptoms similar to what junkies experience when trying to quit their vice, cold turkey, after indulging for 70 years. Yet, a fix might still be found. At the end of a brief walk to the east, the Khaki clad crowd will find the Explorer Canoes and an alternative river Adventure. Be warned, though. While the law of the Jungle is “Don’t be a Zebra”. The law of the river is, “If ya don’t row, ya don’t go”.... (See “The Back Side of Mark Twain” page 3)

FOREIGN GORILLA CONCERNS RESURFACE

Is it all just Monkey Business?

In the wake of the JNC’s current primate issues, reports of giant ape sightings from last year are brought to mind. Readers may recall news of another giant gorilla that was said to be menacing villages in the remote country of Ugustswami, and the natives of that region pointed to ancient folklore telling of a creature known as a “Marikawee” – which translate to “Gorilla King”. A coincidence? Perhaps. But, it’s worth noting that Lost Delta Legends of the “Elixir of Vigor” trace their ancient origins to Ugustswami oral tradition. Hence, a pattern begins to take shape. EOG is not the only one connecting the dots. The R.E.C. also sees a pattern and is dispatching... (See “The other Harry Royal” page 10)
